

ROYCE TIBBETS

Interviewed by Gina Cressey

August 22, 2000

Transcribed by George Scholhamer February 20, 2003

Edited by Zelma Huntoon March 10, 2003

We were living in Liberty, as I recall Mom and Dad were in the teaching business, and for some reason they came to Bayside. I think they had relatives down here. Orrington folks, my mother had friends from. My mother came from Orrington. That's probably how we came down the first time.

1936, 1937. That's when we were living in Liberty. We had a cottage on Main St. The third one up on the right from the park.

My mother was the postmaster, or mistress, as they were called, for about eight years, it was a summer job.

The mail would come down from Belfast by contract carrier. I can remember a fellow by the name of Otis, first name was Otis. Anyway he had an old big Buick or something and he had a lady that worked for him that would bring the mail. Twice a day. Once in the morning and in the afternoon.

Looking up Main street.