AT NORTHPORT.

Bright are thy billows, O beautiful sea!
Would I could wander forever by thee!

Rocked on thy breast,
As a fond babe caressed
In the arms of its mother,
Contentedly blest,
I would ever repose
On thy bosom, and be
A child of thine own,
O beautiful sea.

Mrs. P. C. D.

THE LENGTH OF THE SEASON.

We have before alluded to the shortness of the seaside season made by the average denizen at Northport, and regretted that the really best part of the season is not usually enjoyed except by a few who courageously ignore the fashion of leaving with the ending of the annual Campmeeting at the Grove, which has been the habit for some time. There is no rhyme or reason in so doing, for September is usually the most beautiful and pleasant month here of the season. The SEA BREEZE remained here last year till October, and left even then regretfully, because our neighbors had flitted and man is a gregarious animal.

This season the argument for remaining will be stronger than ever, for the lateness to which cold weather held on will carry the warm season further into autumn than the average year. The rush of visitors here will come during a very short time and all will be crowded into about three weeks if the old practice of closing up with the Campmeeting is continued. We trust a new departure will be made in this respect.

There is a method by which the lengthening of the season could be arrived at effectually. If the Association could see its way clear to change the date of holding the annual Campmeeting two weeks later the matter would be settled definitely. We understand the subject is being agitated and discussed and it seems to us if the change can be made without detriment to the Association it would be wise and best to do it.

NEW ROAD. A petition largely signed by interested parties and tax-payers has been presented to the County Commissioners, asking that a public road be laid out and built around the big hill near the entrance to the Grounds on the Belfast road. The proposed route commences at the foot of the big hill, where a road is already commenced by Vinal Hills and others, continues on said new road several rods, then swings to the right and strikes the present main road at the top of the hill near the entrance to the Grounds. This would avoid the steep hill by gentle incline, making the drive to Belfast a pleasant one. After this road is constructed a short branch of a couple of rods could be built from it to the square above the "chain" on the Grounds, and the whole matter satisfactorily arranged. We trust the road will be laid out and built at once.

OUR NORTHPORT. The glorious air of Maine is too well known to need praising. Suffice it to say that the atmosphere of Northport is fully equal, if not superior, to that of Mt. Desert. It is a self-evident fact that the Maine sea-coast is destined to be the great centre of future Atlantic resorts, most prominent among which will shine Mt. Desert, of course, for, everything taken into consideration, that is virtually incomparable; but Northport will rank next, attracting such tourists as seek a quiet and beautiful summer home and desire to avoid fashion and great expense. The fashionable world will stream towards Bar Harbor, but none the less will Northport retain its devotees.

BAR HARBOR ITEMS. The season opened with a larger number of visitors and residents than ever before, and the indications are the place will be extensively patronized. . . Cottages are advertised to rent, furnished, for $300 for the season. . . One firm has 200 canoes on hand for letting to visitors. . . Two papers are published, the Tourist and the Herald. . . The Tourist says the two leading objects of attraction to visitors seem to be Green Mountain, and Sears' new cottage. . . Cottage lots sell at $3 per foot. . . Big Thunder and several other Indians with big sounding names are living here, as well as many "big bugs" from the West. . . A Boston man is building a "bungalow," or fancy cottage, in East Indian style. . . The chief business of the rusticator is to go to the wharf and see the boats come in. . . The village has an excellent system of water works. . . Visitors are notified to bring thick clothing. . . The Tourist runs to "personals," which are good in their way, but there can be too much of a good thing.

WESLEYAN GROVE CAMP-MEETING ASSOCIATION. The following are the officers of the Association for the current year:—

President, R. A. Rich of Winterport. Trustees:—J. Burbank, Bangor, Horace Muzzey, Searsmont, Stephen Gould, Rockland, Eben Tibbetts, Dexter, H. Ruggles, Carmel, F. R. Webber, St. Albans, Chas. F. Ginn, Belfast; Sec'y, Rev. A. Church, Camden. Hiram Ruggles, Treasurer and Supt.

Maranocook grove is engaged for every day but two in July, ending with the grand Temperance camp-meeting picnic, 28-31.

Old Orchard reports a lively season with visitors and excursionists innumerable. It supports two daily papers for the season, the Sea Shell and the Reporter.

According to a fashion writer, the young lady of the period who would be fashionable must wear 23 distinct pieces of drv goods. Divide it by two when you come to Northport.

There are two things a woman cannot do gracefully the first time trying. One is to throw a stone at a hen, and the other to get into a hammock. In the latter case she is a deplorable failure until after a season's experience at Northport.

LIVERY AND BOARDING STABLE, Northport Camp-Ground.

Teams always in readiness to take parties to the "Bluff," or any point of interest in the locality.

We have just added a whole new stock of HORSES, CARRIAGES, HARNESSSES, &c.

SATURDAY, JULY 30, 1881.

NORTHPORT CAMP-GROUND POST-OFFICE.—Mails leave at 6:30 A. M., and are due at 3:30 P. M., daily.

SEA WRACK.

The Boston boats stop at the wharf daily. Who's "high line" this year? Don't all speak at once.

The water is too cold for sea bathing unless you are strong and hearty.

Quite a fleet of boats in the harbor. We counted 30 one day—all home craft.

The Winterport Cornet Band advertises an excursion here next Wed., Aug. 3.

Quotation appropriate for the past two weeks: "The rain it raineth every day."

Parties everyday are inquiring for bathing suits. "Twill pay somebody to keep them to rent."

H. B. Dunbar has transformed his little cottage on Broadway. We christen it the "Gem."

The first annual reunion of the G. G. CLUB of Belfast, was held Wednesday, 27th, at Clear View Cottage on So. Shore.

The yacht "Sport" was decked in colors and streamers from stem to stern Sunday, making a pretty picture in the harbor. Come again.

The loss to the farmers of Maine, caused by the long continued rainy weather in damaging hay in the fields, can only be reckoned by hundreds of thousands of dollars.

B. P. Palmer, Ed. of Boston Globe, was here last week on a day's vacation. His family will spend the summer at the Burbank cottage, and he will be here during the season.

F. R. Webber and A. Linn and their families, of St. Albans, have arrived and will occupy their cottages, "the twins," at the foot of Maple st., opposite Wesleyan square, during the season.

Notwithstanding our increased size we are beginning to experience the same trouble as last year—more items to give than we have room for. It is hard work to squeeze a quart into a pint measure.

Arrangements are being made for connecting the Grounds with Belfast by telephone, and it is expected the wire will be up and communication had within ten days. We are ready to be "phoned."

We have a number of D. D.'s, Hons., and other hightitled visitors and residents, but when we reach Northport titles are dropped and all are on a level—only men and nothing more. Hence the lack of titles in the SEA BREEZE.

The yacht "Naragansett" and Mr. Stone, her owner, is again summering around Penobscot Bay, making her headquarters off Turtle Head. Jack Farrow, her sailing master, keeps everything taut, neat and trim, and ready for service at a moment's notice.

Dr. A. S. Davis, of Chelsea, Mass., the hospitable hermit of Turtle Head, and his wife, have been occupying their cottage home ever so many weeks. We are expecting every year that civilization will find out the Dr.'s pleasant, quiet retreat, and he will be able no longer to chew the sweet cud of solitude.

Right across the bay, only six miles, is Brigadier's Island, owned by Sears, of Boston, and containing his summer house, and fine farm with blooded stock and all modern improvements. Mr. Cochran the Supt. keeps every thing in apple pie order. The SEA BREEZE promises itself and him a visit before many weeks.

The Castine Camp-Meeting will commence August 15; Nobleboro, Aug. 29.

The Belfast papers copy liberally from the SEA BREEZE, and give us due credit.

Islesboro items received too late for this number. Will be given regularly hereafter.

Gene McDonald and family are occupying their cottage on No. Shore for the season.

J. S. Harriman and family of Belfast are occupying "Hazel Bank" cottage on No. Shore.

Geo. L. Knight's family of Belfast are stopping at "Birchwood" with Dr. Lombard's family.

Henry J. Woods and family, of Newton, Mass., have arrived and taken possession of their cottage, "Idlewild," on No. Shore.

The noted yacht Una, formerly of Boston, came up the bay lately. She is 45 tons, schooner rigged, and spreads 1,500 yards of canvas.

Our item last week referring to the occupants of the Marston Cottage on Park row, should have read Terry instead of Wagg. Will Mr. T. accept the correction?

The Steamer May Queen is again on the route. Steamer Everett, of Castine, filled the vacancy while the Queen was being repaired. The Everett will visit us frequently with excursions.

During the severe thunder shower last Tuesday evening the house of A. C. Batchelder, at Saturday Cove, just below the Grounds, was struck by lightning and considerably damaged.

More parties from Mass. and the West have written here in regard to board, &c., this season than ever before, and but for the unseasonable weather we should have been full of guests and visitors now. They are coming, though.

Directly across Penobscot bay from Clear View cottage we catch a glimpse of the Wassumkeag House on Fort Point, glistening in the sun and looming up grand and majestic in its solitude. If it was located anywhere on Northport shores it would not be an elephant on its owners' hands. We need just such a hotel down on So. Shore on the plateau at Breezy Point.

THE WEATHER. That old, standard subject, the weather, has been an unusually important one for the last two weeks, which has given us a daily succession of rain, rain, rain!! till we are all soaked, waterlogged and almost skeptical whether there is to be any more fair weather this season. Longfellow says: "Into each life some rain must fall," but we don't care to have ours all at once, thank you. Well, the only consolation we have is that the other fellows are as badly off as we, and also, that, by the law of compensation, we shall have lots of fine days next month to even the thing. Hasten the day.

WESLEYAN GROVE HOUSE. The following guests have registered lately:—

E. L. Arnold, B. W. Guptill, Bangor; L. A. Torrens and wife, F. E. Russell and wife, Boston; Geo. Hamilton, Fred Dority, H. L. Hall, B. W. Guptill, E. E. Small and wife, Bangor; Geo. E. Boyd, F. H. Horton, Bangor; H. B. Cornwall, C. E. Marsh, Rockland; L. P. Senter, Portland; J. E. Sherman and wife, Boston; E. H. Howes and wife, Haverhill; Mrs. J. T. Webb, Ohio; G. Wilder, Boston; all of yacht "Sport"; D. S. Parker and wife, Mattawamkeag; C. C. Hills, D. S. Walton, M. H. French, H. W. Hubbard, Boston; Dr. Teft, Albion Veasie, Bangor; Walter N. Smith, Alfred Bond, Walter Patterson, No. Adams, Mass.; E. H. Hall and daughter, Bangor; Rev. C. D. Crane, Hampden.

She has packed her mammoth trunk-a,
Ladeda.

Which she calls her Saratoga,
Ladeda.

Oh! Won't there be a crash?
For she's going on a mash;
Some fellows heart to smash;
Ladeda, Ladeda.

Down at Northport by the sea;
Ladeda.

In the best of com-pan-ee,
Ladeda.

And she will hop and swim,
And take the fellows in;

Oh! Is it not a sin?

PENOBSCOT.

O rolling Penobscot, O mighty Penobscot, Majestic Penobscot, great river of Maine.
In sweet recollection and fond retrospection
We drift down your waters with dear ones again.

Some friends we loved dearest, some hearts that were nearest,

Their forms and their faces, their mirth and their glee,

Have faded from sight in eternity's ocean,
Like rain drops that fall in the fathomless sea.

O rolling Penobscot, majestic Penobscot;
Mighty Penobscot; we greet you again.

ZEPHYRS.

Fort Point has engaged a band for the season which plays when the steamer makes a landing.

Burkett, of Belfast, takes about half a column of the BREEZE to refer to his large dry goods business.

The Portland yacht Bonita, on a summer cruise along shore with a party from Bangor, visited Northport last week.

Sam. Kimball, junior member of the firm
J. S. Kimball & Son, Bangor, is making a specialty of cottage sales, rents, etc.

The old and reliable firm of J. F. Parkhurst & Son, of Bangor, call attention to their business in a five square ad. Read it.

Down at Bar Harbor they partition off the Indians from the whites, and give the noble red man a new stamping ground each year.

Parties at Northport wishing to purchase anything to satisfy the mind or body are referred to our advertisers. Live business men advertise. Buy of them.

There ought to be a road built on the shore around the foot of the bluff to Saturday Cove. It would pay the town of Northport to do so in less than five years from increased taxes.

A lady, while fishing off the wharf at Belfast, caught a tinker which had a peculiar attachment in the shape of a small eel which had eaten into the flesh of the side of the tinker and fastened itself thereto.

A favorite objective point for Sunday school and church societies' excursions from Belfast this year is Dice's Head at Castine.
A new wharf has been built there, and the sail across the bay is very pleasant.

Our census of So. Shore avenue shows 100 residents.

Ed. Johnson and wife, of Belfast, drive ple Street, on which W. C. Tuttle has moved his old cottage, has been named Oak St.

The Bar Harbor Tourist, issued twice a week, will be sent for the season for $1. Address Gilman Colby, Bar Harbor, Me.

Doc. Lombard and family have moved down to his cottage on North Shore. Doc.
finds it harder than pulling teeth to stay away from breezy Northport.

We wrote Will. Fuller, of the Rockland Courier, that we wanted his paper during the season to steal funnygraphs from, and he sent it right along. Thanks.

Everything lost, found, wanted, &c., &c., should be advertised in the SEA BREEZE.
Leave word at the Post-office in Hotel. Only 25 cts. for an insertion.

Remember we can furnish back numbers of the SEA BREEZE, also a few full files of last season's edition. Leave your subscriptions, &c., at the Post-office with Ev. Nealey.

The Squirrel Island Squid is the leading seaside season paper printed in Maine. Send 35 cts. for the weekly or 70 cts. for the twice weekly edition, to Parke G. Dingley & Co., Squirrel Island, Me.

The Twombly Bros. have opened the Livery Stable at the head of Clinton St., at the grounds entrance, with a whole new stock of teams, carriages, &c. You can get a nice team any time at reasonable rates.

Keep us posted in anything occurring in your locality worth making an item of, or in which you are interested. Don't find fault because certain things or events are not noticed in the SEA BREEZE unless you take pains to notify us. Any note or fact left at the Postoffice on the Grounds will be duly received.

The annual campmeeting of the society of religionists called the Church of God will be held this year in Maple Grove, West Sears-port, about four miles from Belfast, commencing August 11 and continuing 10 days. The grove is located on the shores of Kane pond, and has been purchased and fitted for a permanent camp-ground.

A correspondent of the Bangor Whig very truly says:—

Hiram Ruggles, Esq., Superintendent of the Grounds, is present and putting in operation various improvements on and about the grounds, grading streets, laying sewers, &c.
To his efficient and energetic superintendence the Association owes much of its prosperity and the present beautiful condition of its property.

The Squirrel Island Squid is out for the season, looking as fresh and neat as a daisy, or a "Squid." Bro. McCleery makes a live paper. We expect to have occasion to "hook" a good many items from its columns during the summer. More sojourners are at the Island than ever before. The weather is fine and the season promises to be the best ever enjoyed at that point. Boats run to the Island thrice daily. Among the additions to the squirrel fleet is a $700 yacht, just purchased in the Kennebec river. The "Sea Breezers" send their greeting and bon voyage to the "Squirrel Squidites."

THE SEA BREEZE.

SATURDAY, JULY 30, 1881.

RECREATION.

Everything, both animate and inanimate, needs rest and quiet—recreation, which in human affairs is a phase of life of which we, as a nation, know but little. If there is one thing more than another to be encouraged in summer, it is reasonable recreation; that exercise between body and mind which brings about harmony between both; that periodical abstaining from incessant labor, which renders us fresher for it; that intercourse with beautiful Mother Earth, which leads us to value natural aspirations.

Never pass a day in summer without some calm half-hour for quiet and enjoyment; life has only so many years, and during their space we should live, not vegetate. The time will come when sanitary measures and means for enjoying a phase of life will be thought of more than laying up things that rust.

We cannot here enter upon the meaning of recreation in a wider sense; but it is not recreation to rush out of town and stop at some place to drink beer and smoke all the time; it is not recreation to push on in crowds of excitement out of doors; it is not recreation to overheat yourself and feel more fatigued the day after than the day before. For recreation you want leisure, moderate movement, happy thoughts, kindly company, some pleasant talk, cheerful music, refreshing food and drink, and, above all, a thankful heart that you are able to enjoy these; then no one could say that such recreation would be against the highest religious rules of living. Food, drink, dwelling, clothing, activity, rest and recreation, all are modified by the social circumstances under which we are living.

COTTAGE REGISTER. Some of our cottages have a blank book, or register in which are inscribed the names of their daily visitors, which forms a very appropriate and pleasant memento of sunny days at Northport when the cold northerners blow down upon us in the winter. It also becomes an interesting record to look over year after year as we return to the green shores and pleasant groves of Northport. We most cordially recommend the plan. A quire of strong, smooth wrapping paper, duly fastened together, answers all purposes.

The "crop" of tinkers this year has been large and entirely satisfactory to local lovers of a piscatorial sport and fishy diet. Many barrels have been caught in the bay, and not a few salted for future consumption. The following is the method for preserving them:—Lay the fish on a board on its side, head to your left hand and facing you, then make a drawing cut with a long, sharp knife, starting near the tail and lengthwise of the fish along and on top of the back bone to the gills, cutting off a sliver of flesh. Turn the fish over and cut a similar strip from the other side. This gives two clean strips or "slivers" of flesh almost wholly without bones from each tinker. Wash these in sea water and they are ready for the pan. Fry lightly in butter and they make food fit for any epicure. These "slivers" may be pickled and lightly salted for future use. A "kit" of them contains a good deal of eating, as there is no waste.

The SEA BREEZE acknowledges some very acceptable serenading from boats in the bay opposite Clear View last Sunday evening. "Starboard watch ahoy!" was well rendered. Also a cornet solo, and a song with concertino accompaniment.

SALT SPRAY.

Where are the porgies?

Illuminate, if fair, to-night.

Mackerel three times a day, did you say?

Those oil stoves are said to work tip-top—just the thing for campers-but.

Leave your notices of all kinds for the BREEZE at the Post-office with Ev. Nealey.

Thanks to several papers for complimentary notices of the SEA BREEZE.

Life will commence here in earnest next week.

Be sure and have your letters directed to "Northport Camp-Ground."

The beautiful steam yacht Sappho went up the bay this week.

Northport tax collector has a word to say elsewhere.

Several tenters out find it decidedly damp. Have courage, friends, beautiful weather soon.

Dogdays have commenced. Muzzle your dog, your tongue, your appetite and your temper, and you pass through with safety.

So, Shore avenue is to be extended down to the furthest cottages immediately after hay-ing is over, by the town of Northport.

Chas. A. Pillsbury, of the Belfast Journal, is building a tasty and cozy cottage below the city, on Northport avenue.

Bert. Woodman has a hand power paddle wheel attachment to his row boat which works successfully.

Uncle Alfred says that since the rainy season he fully understands why seaside resorts are called watering places.

Mr. Brown, of the Grove House, has just put in a fine livery stock. His buckboard is a No. 1 carriage, and in great demand for parties, excursions, &c.

The stars and stripes float out on the balmy air from "Idlewild" and "Naboli" cottages on No. Shore, and from "Cherry Grove" and "Clear View" on So. Shore.

A number of excursions booked here this week from Bangor, Rockland, &c., were postponed on account of the weather. Try it again, neighbors.

Messrs. Webber of St. Albans, and Cass, Joss, Snow and Collett, of Bangor, were the champion croqueters this week. The croquet ground is in A. No. 1 condition.

J. E. Sherman, of Boston, has bought the Bucksport yacht "Sport," and with his family and a party of friends is spending a few weeks in this vicinity.

A terrific thunder shower passed over us last Tuesday night. It seemed as though all heaven's artillery were out on a field day's practice. In fact it was a thundering shower.

Religious services last Sabbath were conducted by Rev. Mr. Chandler, of Skowhegan. Rev. Mr. Libby, of Belfast, preaches next Sabbath, to-morrow. Sabbath School each Sunday.

No changes will be made this year in the hotel arrangements, &c., rumor to the contrary notwithstanding. It is quite likely another year will witness changes and improvements of quite an extensive character.

A willow basket, containing clothing, &c., was lost overboard from the Ralph Ross while coming down river. The finder is requested to return it to the owner, Miss Tillock, of Bucksport.

Ross & Howell's steamer brings down a crowd from Bangor every Saturday night, many of whom return Monday morning, after thirty-six hours of the quiet, pure air and rest among the umbrageous groves and by the surf-washed shores of Northport.

Have you hung out your cottage register?

It is proposed to fine the girls who fish from hammocks for bashful young men. "Take care! Beware, she is fooling thee."

A specimen of Old Orchard gush:—

"Do you know he's just come, and he has such beautiful brown eyes, an old gold moustache, and delightful hair. Ah! he's just too sweet for anything."

The first number of the Northport Camp-Ground Sea Breeze blew in on us yesterday. It is very neatly printed, well edited, and has a healthy, invigorating air about it that we like. OLD ORCHARD REPORTER.

Thanks. You're another.

The Rockland Courier says:

The First Baptist Sunday-school made its excursion to Northport Thursday, and the good-sized crowd which attended enjoyed the affair very much. The festivities were opened and closed with thunder-showers, but that did not entirely destroy the symmetry of the occasion. A small amount was netted for the school.

TAXES! TAXES!!

I am now ready to receive COTTAGE TAXES and other taxes due the town of Northport. Call at my office near the Grounds. I shall be on the Grounds, collecting, occasionally.
